

My favourite task is butchering up whole lambs.

It's very important to shop at local butchers because you get a much higher quality product compared to a supermarket.

*William
Hingham Butchers*

My favourite butchery task is lamb butchery, in particular French trimmed racks of lamb, boned and rolled shoulders of lamb.

I think it's important to shop at local butchers shops because it helps to improve local communities.

*John
Frank Spurgeon LTD*

My favourite butchery task is to make the sausages for the week as sausages are one of our best selling products and I get a good sense of achievement when they sell.

It is important to support local butchers because we are independent shop's and depend on local support to survive. This keeps me in a job that I am really enjoying learning.

Jack
Toombs Butchers

My favorite butchery task so far is definitely coming up with, and then making new things for our window. Diversifying the counter and seeing ideas actually work is very satisfying and fun.

It's important to use local butchers shops to keep the trade alive. By using smaller businesses you're not only helping to maintain a versified high street but also it shows that you care for the local area you live in. There is also usually a huge jump in quality when using a local butchers compared to a supermarket. To show your support, and to assure you get the best produce available, shopping in the butchers is the best thing to keep doing.

Lydia
G Shurey & Sons

I wouldn't say I had a favourite job to do in the butcher's, I like doing everything, from prepping, making sausages, cutting up carcasses to serving customers. Making customers happy is always the best part because you know all the hard work everyone has done has paid off.

I think it is important to support/shop at local butchers because we can provide locally sourced products of the best quality.

*Chloe
Swanton Morley butchers.*

My favourite task is making sausages and learning new tasks, which I do everyday.

It is important to support local butchers as it's a benefit for everyone, it keeps small business' running which helps farmers and in return the butchers along with the farmers ensure the best quality products, they can ensure traceability which is crucial to know where the meat comes from.

*Katie
Hall Farm Butchers*

